The Highland Park Recorder Society (HPRS) is an educational and musical not-for-profit organization founded in 1987 by Donna Messer as a chapter of the American Recorder Society. The Society's mission is to cultivate and foster a love and appreciation of the art, history, literature and uses of the recorder, to raise the level of proficiency in its performance, and to enhance public awareness of the riches and beauty of early music. To fulfill its mission, the HPRS holds workshops, presents chamber concerts, showcasing music of the Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque and current periods and presents online seminars in early music performance. Musica Dolce, a Baroque outreach ensemble of the society, performs Baroque music to lift the spirit.

Support the Mission of Highland Park Recorder Society by Making a Donation
